The most efficient payment process for an international student, to pay their student fees, is through Western Union Business Solutions (formerly Travelex). This option allows you to pay the US dollar student fees in the currency of your choice.

Students can choose to make a payment to UConn by selecting the Western Union for International Students on the Bursar’s website at http://bursar.uconn.edu/westernunion.html or directly to the Western Union site by clicking here.

- Provide your student ID number, student name and UConn email.
- Select “Tuition, Fees, Room and Board” from the drop down list. The amount being transferred to UConn should be for tuition, fees, and other charges on the student fee account, and should not be sent for off-campus (non UConn ) living expense for the student. UConn reserves the right to hold funds sent in excess of tuition and fees for a subsequent term, or return excess funds to the student.

- The exchange rate quoted will remain valid for 72 hours from the time which will be indicated on the payment instructions you’ll receive after clicking “submit”. During this time you or the payer must take the banking instructions to your bank, who will initiate the transfer of funds through Western Union to the University of Connecticut. Western Union must receive your payment within 72 hours of your receipt of the applicable currency quote. In the event Western Union receives your payment after the 72 hour period, Western Union shall use the current exchange rate to convert the currency. On receipt of the funds your student fee account will be credited. While the transfer is in progress, your account will continue to show the outstanding amount due.

If you have paid your account through Western Union and then cancel your registration, we may ask you for bank account information so that the credit may be returned by wire to the originating country. Wire transfer costs will be deducted from your refund.
